Malnazar

The main purpose of this study is to compare the differences in job satisfaction according to Emotional Intelligence and its dimensions in employees at Qadisiyah University. The sample of the study consisted of (130) employees of both sexes, they were randomly selected. The researchers used measures of job satisfaction and Emotional Intelligence; which were validated; furthermore, we used pertinent statistical tools. The results of the study showed no job satisfaction in the employees of Qadisiyah University, but they have Emotional Intelligence. We also found that job satisfaction vary according to emotion management.

Keywords: job satisfaction; emotional intelligence; university employees.